New Conferences -- Call for Speakers Released!

We (Fawcette Technical Publications, Inc's conference department) have some news of our own to announce today. We've just released a Call for Speakers for several conferences:

- 1) Call for Speakers for: XML Magazine's XML Tech Summit, October 22&23 in Washington DC.
- 2) Call for Speakers for: Web Builder series of conferences, November 28-30 in New Orleans. Web Builder is actually three conferences -- to be named later:
  - 1) A Web Design conference planned by Thunder Lizard Productions
  - 2) A Java Developer's conference planned by JavaPro Magazine
  - 3) An ASP.NET Developer's conference planned by Visual Basic Programmer's Journal

I'd love to talk with you about speaking at any of these four conferences. Email me at rsoble@fawcette.com or visit our Speaker FAQ at <http://www.fawcette.com/speakerfaq/> for more info or see our conference home page.

Exclusive Train Simulator News from Paris

Wow, one of my community members went to the Paris Model Rail show and wrote up some exclusive reports as well as took 77 pictures. All exclusively on my Fan Site. It's fun to break news and not even be the one to do it! I gotta get this guy some swag when I go to Microsoft later this month.

XML-RPC RAP

Hey, check this out: my buddy Dan Shafer (who got CNET's Builder.com off the ground) and Laurence Rozier have been hard at work on a Web Service.

His WeTalkNetwork builds great community software and sites and their new Web Service -- named RAP -- is available to ordinary browsers, yet compatible with XML-RPC, and soon, SOAP.

You can get the full story behind RAP including some nifty examples of why they're so excited about its potential, from the links at the main WeTalkNetwork RAP page <http://www.wetalknetwork.com/rap.html>

Also, check out Dan's examples of RAP at his personal site, <http://www.gui.com>. At the bottom of the front page there you'll find several demo links accessing information on their WeTalkSports site.

I gotta play with this more!

Do you always tell the truth?

I've been thinking a lot about that lately. My thesis is that the world would be a worse place if we always told the truth.

Do you tell your wife that she is fat if she asks?

Do you tell your boss what you really think about him or her? Particularly if you really don't like him or her?

Do you tell your market what you really think about all the players?

Do you tell the world about your sex life on your blog? Well, some of you do, but I don't think you need to know the truth about that here.

If you're a politician, do you really tell the truth about what you think about the other countries and people you have to deal with?

I sure hope not.

But, if you really wanna tell me the truth, write to rsoble@fawcette.com. Don't tell me this blog sucks. I already know THAT.

Web Design Week Continues on Saturday... (until I get time to post more sites, visit <http://www.glassdog.com/> which today turned five and it's a darn cool site for Web designers anyway).
